WEATHER OBSERVATIONS

U. S. Department of Agriculture
Weather Bureau.

Rain or snow on the eastern Rocky mountain slope and rains from the Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio valleys to New England have resulted from the southwesterly low, the center of which has advanced to Minnesota. At Pierre, S. D., the rainfall during the past 24 hours has amounted to 2.66 inches, and at Green Bay, Wis., to 1.66 inches. Another disturbance which is over Florida is causing rains on the south Atlantic coast. High pressures and fair, decided cool weather prevail in the Rocky mountain region, freezing temperatures quite general from Alberta and Saskatchewan, southward to Colorado and Utah. Owing to the eastward movement of the Minnesota low and the Rocky mountain high, fair weather is indicated for this vicinity tonight and Tuesday, with cooler tonight.
